

Stretch and Challenge

Effective strategies for teaching the most able “Really superb! Really thoughtful material with brilliant modelling of the very strategies you were promoting.”

B. Fletcher - Principal, New College Doncaster

“Dynamic and timely, lots of practical ideas to use.”

M. Nicholson - English Teacher, Sheffield

Available also as a whole staff inset/twilight, contact: caroline@bentley-davies.co.uk

The big picture: the key areas

- An understanding of what we mean by effective Stretch and Challenge
- Reviewing (briefly) some of the key research
- Looking at the key factors in increasing Stretch and Challenge for all
- How to identify, challenge and effectively teach the most able

Strategies that work in the everyday lesson!

- A 'toolkit' of engaging and effective teaching strategies
- Unpicking methods for making pupils think hard!
- Ways of creating a culture of high expectations in all lessons
- Engaging techniques to create a 'desirable level of difficulty' for students

Improve the level of challenge by reviewing

- How to motivate and engage able, but underachieving students
- Questioning: the 'power tool' of challenge. The 5 things that matter
- Self-evaluate your practice: what's working well and how to develop further

Who should attend?

- Deputy Heads and Senior Leaders
- Staff leading on more able
- Staff leading on Teaching & Learning
- Teachers looking for new strategies for the more able
